School Accreditation

The Lowell High School is fully accredited by the New York State Education Department.

About Lowell: The Lowell High School is a New York State approved and Regents accredited not-for-profit coeducational day school founded in 1968. We provide a twelve-month specialized academic program for the learning disabled child in a structured and supportive environment. Our program serves a student population from Grades 9-12. We respect and nurture the unique qualities of all students within the context of a challenging academic program and provide opportunities for academic achievement and social growth.

Our Mission: The mission of The Lowell School is to create an environment in which the learning disabled child can achieve success and reach his/her potential. The goal for our students is to develop a love for learning, to build self-confidence, and to be able to effectively advocate for themselves.
